

Parched Earth tables

The PARCHED EARTH is a series of side tables features laser-cut rusted steel tops in various geometric shapes paired with round steel rod legs in a black epoxy powder finish. The rusting process occurs spontaneously and is intentionally halted by applying a varnish layer, defining the "final" appearance.

The series offers a dynamic element, allowing for constant rearrangement and becoming a playful game that generates diverse combinations based on individual preferences. The tables can be treated as standalone objects or grouped into clusters with varying numbers of elements, providing flexibility in their presentation.

DIMENSIONS:
Diverse sizes

MATERIALS:
Steel (Rust and Paint)

LEGS

POWDER COATED STEEL

TOP: Steel (Rust and Paint)

- Each table is different and special in its texture because the process is dynamic and unique.